Working together in partnership

Leading Innovation: Embracing Technology Conference

Technology adds value to education and training in many ways. This conference, will support participants to develop a strategic approach and improve the use of technology for learners and their organisation.

Overview

This one-day conference will provide a forum for leaders and managers in the further education and skills sector to understand and share the benefits of using technology within their organisations.

This is an opportunity for those in the early stages of embracing technology to experience innovative practice and understand how to develop and implement an organisation-wide technology strategy.

You will meet those already benefiting from harnessing technology in their organisations and learn about their experiences through keynote speeches, interactive workshops and networking opportunities.

Benefits of attending

Discover how technology can:

- be used innovatively within your organisation
- enhance teaching and learning
- benefit and impact on learners
- be embedded and used in a safe and appropriate way within your organisation.

You will have the opportunity to:

- understand how Generator¹ can help you assess your progress in using technology
- network with peers who are on a similar journey
- meet members of the Technology Exemplar Network²
- discuss the role that technology will continue to play in learning and in the future.

Who should attend?

Leaders and managers from across the whole FE and skills system, including work-based, adult and community, and offender learning providers, independent specialist colleges and FE colleges.

Date and venue

Date: 20 October 2009

Venue: Aston University
